Herman Beisert who lives about one mile South of Serbin came to Giddings Tuesday to have a tooth pulled. On his way home in his car he leaned out of the car to spit blood out of his mouth, lost control of the car and turned it completely over in a ditch without injury either to him or his car. With the aid of passersby the car was righted and Mr. Beisert was on his way home again firmly convinced that it is an unlucky thing to have to have a tooth pulled.
