

The Giddings News

September 26, 1924

Found Oil but not Alarmed

Herman Kriegel drew up some oil from his well the other day and on examining it found it to be lubricating oil, then taking second thought he remembered that his neighbor Lee Bishop had put down some pipes and pump machinery. Upon inquiry, it was found that oil appeared in Kriegel's well the same day that Bishop put down his pump rods with oil on them, proving that the two wells are from the same strata of water.