HARD WORK PAYS

Ben Buchorn who is telegraph and station agent at La Ward (Jackson Co.) called on the editor Monday while visiting old friends in the county. Ben deserves credit for his climb in the world. He was left an orphan at an early age and by dint of hard work and picking cotton, he earned enough money to pay his tuition for higher education. He says he owes much of his inspiration to two of his teachers while in the primary grades, Miss Lona Braun, now teaching at Round Top, and Miss Emma Stullken, now Mrs. Webb, practicing attorney of Elgin. Ben took his 12-year-old son to see the Gloyna school house where he attended primary school. The boy said: "Daddy, how could you learn anything in such a small house?" Ben is trustee in a $40,000 school house.
