

The Citizens State Bank

There is admittedly no one institution of greater importance to the advancement of any city or town than first class banking facilities. Giddings is very fortunate in this respect in having within its confines that sound financial institution, the Citizens State Bank, and we point with pride to the many advantages that this bank offers to the people of the community. This bank is one of those financial institutions which can be safely commended to the public, having behind it great power and financial strength and a personnel that has made for it an enviable reputation in banking in this whole section of the state. Those in charge of its affairs are public spirited citizens and thoroughly representative of the community's new era of progress. Courteous and accomodating treatment is extended to all visitors and customers, and a splendid patronage has been gained in the years which have elapsed since its organization. The Citizens State Bank appeals for the patronage of the people of this whole community, promising in return the most courteous and accomodating treatment and personal attention to all affairs left in its charge.