

The Giddings News

January 29, 1932

FIRE ALARM

The fire alarm was sounded Saturday morning of last week when the brooder house at the E. R. Clark home was on fire. Prompt response by the fire department saved the house, but fifty-four chicks were burned to death. How the fire started is not known, but the brooder was being heated by an oil stove, and it either upset or exploded.