Bill Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fischer, is now located in San Diego, California where he is employed in an aircraft factory. In a letter to his home folks he writes, it never gets cold there with sunshine almost every day. People go around in shirt sleeves. The nights are just cool enough to sleep comfortably, however his trouble is that he is on the night-shift and has to work from 7 p. m. to 6:30 a. m. •
