

The Giddings News

June 13, 1924

Freak

Hermann Luecke was displaying an Irish potato plant which he found in his garden, on which were growing a potato and also a tomato. There were potato blossms on the plant, and when the tomato was cut open, it contained seed. Herman plowed up the stalk before he noticed that it contained two varieties of plants.