Hero in The Rain.

Herman Luecke was anxious about the windows at his residence being closed during the rain Monday afternoon. Mrs. Luecke was away from home so Herman well knew what would happen that night when she came home and found that it had rained into the house. Herman braved the hard rain, got wet in going home and found all the windows down, so he saved the day, put on his slicker and walked back to his store with wet clothes on after it had stopped raining.
