Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Matz of San Benito, Texas, visited relatives here the first of the week. Mr. Matz is remembered when a resident of this county before moving to the Valley, where he has become known for more than one year, getting out the first bale of cotton of new crop and for the one this year there was another bale on the same train going to Houston and Mr. Matz chartered a special train to carry his bale and reached Houston first. The other party then did not stop at Houston but carried his on to New Orleans and was the first to reach there. Mr. Matz is interested quite extensively in truck farming and raises such on a large scale. He and his wife usually visit here every year.
