BARN AND CONTENTS BURN

The fire alarm was sounded about 3 a. m. Tuesday when the large barn on Henry Namken's farm south of town was afire. The fire apparatus was soon on the scene, but no good could be done because the blaze could not be controlled. The barn had about three tons of baled hay and other feed stuff, all of which was lost. The origin of the fire is one of those still unknown causes that starts so many fires about. The building is just outside the city limits.
