

The Giddings News

July 10, 1942

To Prevent Throwing Cattle.

Joe Newsome of Concord was in town Monday getting lumber for building a cattle chute on his ranch. The chute is arranged with upper and lower door at the narrow end so that cattle can be held for branding or doctoring without being thrown. Joe says his big Hereford cows are so strong that if you rope one, you have to be near a tree with two men holding the rope to stop the cow.