

The Giddings News

May 13, 1932

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Charlie Sheppard (colored) and his boy Oswald, age 16 years, were hunting Monday morning. They were running after a squirrel and the shotgun which Charlie was carrying struck a bush and discharged. The load of squirrel shot struck the boy in the muscle of the left thigh. The shot were removed and the muscle was injured.