WHEELER WELL MAKING GOOD SHOWING

The Wheeler test well which is being put down on the Stolz ranch 7 miles west of Lexington, has developed a good showing of the serpentine formation at a depth of 2,000 ft. Casing was begun to be set Wednesday on the lime rock which is supposed to be just above the serpentine formation. Good indications of gas showed up when the gas spouted 2 ft. over the drill stem. It is probable that drilling will be resumed Saturday, when it is expected that a better showing for oil will be struck.
