GIDDINGS IS FRIENDLY

Mr. J. Verdam, geologist with the Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum Company, who has been stationed in Giddings the past several months, was transferred to South Texas, Friday of last week. When leaving, he called and subscribed for the Giddings News, saying that he likes to think of Giddings as his home town and he will surely come back some day to visit his friends here. Mr. Verdam made numerous friends during his stay in Giddings. He plans to leave soon for his home in Holland, where his company is what the Standard Oil Company is to the U. S. Mr. Verdam enjoys reading American books and acquaintance with the fiction of a people leads to a better understanding of national traits.
