

Durwood L. Fuchs Is Now the Owner, Publisher of The Star

Durwood L. Fuchs has become sole owner of The Giddings Printing Company located at 223 West Austin Street in Giddings.

As such, Mr. Fuchs is publisher of The Giddings Star, an independent, progressive newspaper serving a progressing city and community in the agricultural heart of Southeast Central Texas.

Readers of The Star will be interested in knowing that Mr. Fuchs has been associated with Lee County newspapers for the past seven years and has, during this time, become thoroughly acquainted not only with the newspaper business but also has come to know the problems and possibilities of the Lee County area.

DURWOOD L. FUCHS is the new owner of the Giddings Printing Company at 223 West Austin Street in Giddings. He is now the publisher of The Giddings Star, issued each Thursday.

Mr. Fuchs is a native of Carmine, in Fayette County. He is a graduate of Round Top-Carmine Rural High School, having been valedictorian of the first graduating class from that school. He attended Texas Lutheran College in Seguin for two years and also attended the University of Texas where he studied journalism.

Mr. Fuchs has received an award for general excellence from the North and East Texas Press Association for work on another newspaper in Giddings. He is vice-president of the South Texas Press Association and a director of the Texas Gulf Coast Press Association and a member of the editorial board of the Texas Press Association.

Mrs. Woodrow G. Weidemann of Giddings has been named society editor of The Star by Mr. Fuchs. She also will be in charge of the office of the Giddings Printing Company. She has had many years of experience in office work.

Mr. Fuchs announces that The Star will henceforth be published on Thursdays in order to better serve its readers. The paper has joined the Texas Press Association.

A letter from the new publisher to readers appears on page 2 of this issue of The Star. The reader's attention is directed to the letter.

MRS. WOODROW G. WEIDEMANN is the new society editor of The Giddings Star. Mrs. Weidemann is in charge of the office of The Giddings Printing Company.