The Giddings News

January 2, 1942

FIRES PLENTIFUL

Four fire alarms were sounded in Giddings within six days, giving the firemen plenty to do.

Wednesday, Dec. 24, a grass fire near the cemetery was spreading but was put out. That night, a little past 7 o'clock the residence of Henry Lehman was ablaze when the alarm was a front room when a lighted oil loon with a lighted candle in it heater was placed too near window curtains. The family had eaten supper and only Henry G. Lehman was in the house at the time. He discoveered the fire by smelling pine

.The building was almost a total loss and all contents were lost. Two families were living her but had not noticed the fire, in the residence and they rost saved the building all belongings. roof furnished ticles which were blown by a high south wind and several other building: caught on fire, including the residence occupied by D. S. Walters and the barn at Mrs. S. J. Davis'. The firemen put up a strong fight for hours, but the blaze was making too much headway for them to check it.

Saturday afternoon the airturned im The blaze started in port was afire, caused by a balsettling on the grass and set-ting it on fire. The blaze, if not checked could have spread over a large territory. Monday morning about 10 o'clock the roof of Mrs. Werner's residence (the Raube homestead) was noticed on fire about a flue. Mrs. Werner was in the build-> without The shingle much damage. Household arblazing par-ticles were removed to the ing flames.

street, but the weather was favorable and they were not damaged therefrom. There was but little wind and nearby property was guarded from spread-