

The Giddings News

August 24, 1923

Another Wolf Poisoned

Chas. Wieder was in town Saturday and reported having poisoned another wolf, the third one for this year. This wolf had roamed over a large section of the country as it could be traced by its peculiar tracks. The animal was very sly and when a pack of hounds would chase the wolf, it would lead the dogs away in another direction from its litter, this preventing her pups being found.

Wolves have destroyed hundreds of dollars worth of turkeys and poultry this year for the people in the neighborhood where Mr. Wieder lives, and it is now probable that the bunch of wolves can be exterminated. Mr. Wieder has patiently continued his efforts at poisoning the wolves and finally succeeded by placing the poison in capsules into small bits of liver, and arranging the bait in a peculiar manner about the habitat of the wolf.