

The Giddings News

May 6, 1931

BLUE NEWS

How is everybody prospering by now after the down-pours of rain last week?

The farmers sure feel relieved now if present weather conditions stay pretty so can work out their crops.

Corn is very pretty around here and farmers are working it out.

The farmers are still planting cotton, while some are having to plant over after heavy packing rains and cool weather. But some farmers are fixing to plow their cotton which will be a great advantage to it.

The tomato crop will be later this year than expected, but if good warm weather continues, tomatoes of this section, by an estimate, will be off by June 10 or 15. Reporter.