

The Giddings News

March 11, 1932

DIME BOX LOCALS

Guy Attaway and Mrs. J. S. Reat were business visitors to Giddings Monday.

Joe Krenek and family were in Austin one day this week.

Charles Henson and his friend Kermit Harper of Somerville visited here over the week-end.

The volley ball tournament was held at Old Dime Box school house Monday, with a large crowd attending from neighboring schools, among them were, Lexington, Giddings and Friendship schools.

Last Friday morning Reed Henson suffered a very painful accident, when the mules hitched to the grader with which he was dragging the road, became frightened at some horses running by them, and ran away, throwing Mr. Henson off, cutting up his face considerably and injuring one foot. Medical aid was soon obtained and last reports were that he was doing nicely, but is still confined to his bed.

Marshall Arendale of Somerville is visiting in the home of his sister Mrs. Reed Henson.

Everyone is tired of rain and anxious for warm sunshiny weather. It is very cold now, really too cold for hog-killing. We have had very little weather this winter cold enough for killing hogs and saving meat, so this spell will be a help in that way. It is feared that much of the fruit will be killed; dewberries were in full bloom and consequently are likely to be all killed. All garden stuff that wasn't well covered will be frozen.

- Reporter.