The sun is shining nicely again after some 2 or 3 weeks of showery weather and the farmers are rejoicing.

There is some complaining of peanuts sprouting in the ground. Only a few have harvested peanuts yet.

Labor is so scarce, neighbors are going to have to swap work with each other to get the peanuts harvested.

There isn't such a thing hardly as hiring hands to pick cotton in this community, as nearly everybody has a little crop and is trying to gather their own.

Mrs. Mary McMillian and her mother Mrs. Tom Spence of Galveston are spending this week in the home of Rev. J. H. Mathis.

Elmer Mathis and son-in-law Clyde Thompson purchased a farm of 174 acres some few miles southeast of Mallano. Elmer and family are planning on moving on it. They were over there Sunday looking it over.

Mr. and Mrs. Denson Lyles are the proud parents of a big boy.

Rev. J. H. Mathis filled his regular appointment at Black Jack Sunday and Sunday night and reported good services.

Rev. J. H. Mathis, wife and daughter, Junita Spence and Levi Mathis were in Giddings on business Tuesday.
