Warda Pitcher Played
Under Assumed Name

J. Barnes, starting pitcher in the baseball game for Warda Tuesday against Giddings, was playing under an assumed name. In an interview with The News reporter, he admitted that his real name is Grisham and that he plays for a La Grange team.

He attributed the reason for the use of an alias as being that his contract with the La Grange team prohibited him from playing under his real name for another team during the contract.
