MAN JAILED BECAUSE REFUSED TO DIP

Leo Lange, farmer living on the county line 2½ miles south of Ledbetter, in Lee County, was placed in jail a few days ago because he refused to dip his cattle. The county inspector had called on him and tried to explain the matter, and offered to help him dip, but he refused, whereupon he was placed in jail and remained about 24 hours when he gave bond and was released on his promise to dip.
