

YORK — ROWE WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Louise York and Andrew J. Rowe was a charming event solemnized Tuesday noon at the Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. York and is one of the most dearly beloved Giddings' young ladies. The groom is a splendid young man of exceptional ability and is connected with the North Texas Traction Company of Fort Worth. Miss Virginia Fields sang the favorite wedding song: "At Dawning". She was accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Tate at the organ and Mrs. Henry Lehmann on the violin. Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Lehmann furnished the wedding music. Rev. W. W. Burr performed the ceremony which was unusually sweet and impressive.

The church was beautifully decorated in grey moss, ribbons, cut and pot flowers. In a profusion of ferns, there was a predominating color scheme of white, pink, and grey in the ribbons, flowers, and moss. The softly shaded lights added much to the prettiness of the occasion.

Little Miss Louise Tate was the ringbearer. She wore a dainty frock of old rose satin and carried the ring in a rose colored tulip. Miss Maggie Folkes was maid of honor. Her frock was navy blue satin and she wore a corsage of white carnations. Messrs. Alton York and Cecil Tate were the ushers.

The bride was tastefully dressed in a becoming suit of navy cloth embroidered in black with a touch of grey. She wore a white hat of milan straw smartly lined with grey. A grey chiffon blouse with gloves and shoes to match completed her costume. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and grey mollie.

The bridal couple departed immediately after the ceremony. They will be at home in Fort Worth at 2238 Lipscomb Street, after March 7th.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

The hospital home of Mr. H. G. Hertel was the scene of a very pretty occasion when on Feb. 22, bade forty-three of her friends to a miscellaneous shower, celebrating the approaching wedding of Miss Louise York and Andrew Rowe of Ft. Worth.

The parlor hall and drawing room were decked in white with red hearts, cut flowers, potted palms and ferns were artistically arranged throughout the house.

Dorothy Fields and Charles Hertel, in costumes representing Martha and George Washington, met the guests at the door and ushered them into the parlor and drawing room where they sat in pleasant conversation until after a delicious salad course was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Joekel and Miss Rousseau. The guests dispersed wishing Miss Louise much happiness, and thanking Mrs. Hertel for the delightful afternoon.

LUNCHEON.

One of the most perfectly appointed social events in honor of Miss Louise York, the bride of this week, was a luncheon given by Mesdames H. G. Bishop and W. O. Bowers, Jr. at the home of the latter, on Friday at one o'clock. The dining room was softly lighted by pink candles on the luncheon table. The centerpiece was a blonde bride dollie dressed in white satin and crown with orange blossoms from which hung a veil. The plate favors were pink baskets filled with white candies. Each place was marked by a ribbon bedecked heart that was matched by a candy heart of the opposite side of the plate. Over the table a beautiful white wedding bell hung from the chandelier.

The delicious luncheon consisted of five courses which were fruit cocktail, meat and vegetables, with iced tea, jellied salad, date pudding and coffee. Places were laid for eight, Misses Ruth Johnson and Virginia Fields served the luncheon.

After retiring from the dining room, the company played five hundred. At four o'clock Mesdames J. M. Johnson and L. A. Schomer and the Misses Hooper joined the party. Late in the afternoon, the guests were invited into the dining room where on the gleaming table, a lovely white bride's cake of huge dimensions sat in the center of the brightly burning pink candles and each place was served with strawberry ice cream.

Those who enjoyed the pleasant hospitality of the charming hostesses were:

Miss Louise York
Mrs. W. E. York
Mrs. W. H. Joekel
Mrs. M. G. Heck
Miss Maggie Folkes
Miss Vere Hillsman.
