PLACKE - LONGLEY

In a simple ceremony Friday afternoon in the Methodist church, Miss Vere Placke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Placke of Lincoln, became the bride of John Browder Longley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Longley of Giddings. Rev. Don Harwell performed the ring ceremony.

The altar was adorned with gladioli in tall baskets against a background of ferns, yaupon, and candelabra with white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore turf tan 2-piece suit, white gloves, tan shoes and hat. Her corsage was of purple orchids and lillies of the valley. Miss Rose Ann Heck, in gold two-piece suit of alpaka, with black accessories and corsage of red carnations, was maid of honor and also sang "O Promise Me" accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Folkes at the piano. Bill Sibley of Abilene, a college mate of the groom, was best man.

The bride is a teacher in the Lincoln school. The groom will be graduated from A. and M. College next month and will enter military service.

The groom was Editor of The Battalion, student publication at A. and M. He is listed in this year's Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The News joins their many friends in wishing them a long and happy life.
